```python
def simple_calculator():
    print("=== SIMPLE CALCULATOR ===")

        num1 = float(input("Enter the first number: ")) num2 = float(input("Enter the second number: ")) except ValueError:
        print("Error: Invalid input! Please enter numerical values.") return

    print("\nSelect an operation:") print("1. Addition (+)") print("2. Subtraction (-)") print("3. Multiplication (*)") print("4. Division (/)")

    choice = input("\nEnter choice (1/2/3/4 or +, -, *, /): ").strip()

    print("\n--- Result ---")
    if choice in ['1', '+']:
        result = num1 + num2
        print(f"{num1} + {num2} = {result}")
    elif choice in ['2', '-']:
        result = num1 - num2
        print(f"{num1} - {num2} = {result}")
    elif choice in ['3', '*']:
        result = num1 * num2
        print(f"{num1} * {num2} = {result}")
    elif choice in ['4', '/']:
        if num2 == 0:
            print("Error: Division by zero is not allowed.")
        else:
            result = num1 / num2
            print(f"{num1} / {num2} = {result}")
    else:
        print("Error: Invalid operation choice.")

if __name__ == "__main__":
    simple_calculator()
```